

Atlantis Splash Down for Water Babies

Marmaris's ultimate fun spot has to be the newly opened Atlantis Aquapark in the centre of Uzunyalı.

Guaranteed to give kids aged from four to eighty-four the thrill of the holiday, the Aquapark has a choice of rides and slides to suit your own adrenalin level!

The turquoise slide is for beginners in the art of coming to earth with a water assisted landing. The view from the top of the steps is a stunner (and the climb up is worth ten step classes too!), so make sure you've got your breath back before hurtling down again. There are friendly, trained assistants at the top and bottom of all the rides who make sure that you are completely safe at all times.

Wannabe Kamikaze types have their own orange coloured slide, which is a liquid version of the Cresta Run. Inseparable couples can enjoy their own romantic rainbow coloured descent.

Our tester in chief (Adam aged 11), thought the Crazy River slide was the best, with his assistant (Serena aged 8) voting for the long green slide - because it lasted the longest.

For small kiddies there's a froggy island and bunny slides, all well supervised by the park safety personnel.

You'll also find plenty of sun beds around a large swimming pool for taking a breather.

When hunger strikes, there's a well stocked cafeteria with family and adult food; and a Beach Bar which is open til late.
